

Alwoodley Parish Council Notice of Intention to Co-Opt New Councillors

There are currently vacancies on Alwoodley Parish Council.

As no election has been called, the Council intends to fill these vacancies by co-option at a meeting in early 2026.

About the Role

Parish councillors are volunteers who work together to represent the local community, influence services, and help improve life in Alwoodley.

We meet monthly but actively contribute between these meetings, working collaboratively on topics such as:

- Community engagement: Outreach, hosting gatherings of community groups, business, and / or interested residents; newsletter creation and distribution; consultations; digital communications.
- Planning: Reviewing planning proposals, reviewing and developing neighbourhood plan.
- Environment, Biodiversity, sustainability: Improving green spaces for habitat and recreation, taking local measures to reduce harm to/ help the planet.
- Local transport and active travel: Measures to improve local infrastructure and initiatives for public and active travel, reduce car congestion and anti-social parking/driving.
- Finance and policy: Attending to financial oversight and good governance.

No prior Council experience required, but we are looking for people who are interested in rolling up their sleeves and giving their time beyond required meetings. You will have a passion for and a commitment to Alwoodley being a great place to live and you'll enjoy working collaboratively. Training and support will be provided. A particular interest in or experience with one of the areas above would be ideal. Currently, women are under-represented on our Parish Council, and we therefore encourage applications from women.
